From the Desk of the Executive Director

It's hard to believe the new school year is only one week away; weren't we just getting ready for summer? It continues to be an exciting time at the agency and Family Enrichment Network continues to grow and change.

Last year at this time we essentially were in maintenance mode - just trying to keep what we had. We had purchased our first family unit to start addressing Housing needs. Our Special Services efforts in Chenango County were ongoing.

Over the past six months, there was a great deal of activity on the federal level; Early Childhood Development was a big winner with a significant increase in funding for Head Start. We will be able to bring back all the slots and cuts we were forced to make last year and also give a small cost of living increase for staff.

New York State made a significant financial commitment to full day Universal Pre-Kindergarten for all four year olds. We saw some of that last year and will see more in the near future as we continue to strengthen our relationships with the local school districts.

Since that time, we've realized that we have been very successful in our grant writing and Program Development. We have been awarded a five year county contract to assist in identifying mental health issues in children and young adults and make referrals to appropriate providers. We have been awarded the NOEP (food stamp) contract for Tioga County, the Head Start/Early Head Start program for Tioga County, and many other opportunities.

We will be applying to provide Early Head Start services in Chenango County. Over the next year, we will be aggressively looking at services for people with disabilities and opportunities to enhance our housing programming. These efforts will continue our agency philosophy of sustained quality Program Development.

Again, none of this could have happened without our hard working staff, a supportive community, and our strong Policy Council and Governing Board.

Thanks to all of you.

Executive Director*

BUILDING LITERACY EVERY DAY

Excerpted from Read Together, Talk Together™: A Dialogic Reading Program for Young Children.

Every time you read a book, write a note, sort the laundry, check the TV listings, or recount the day's happenings, you are using skills young children need to have to be ready to learn to read and write. Here are some simple activities you and your child can do together.

Learning New Words

Name Games

Play simple naming games with your child. You can ask, "What is This?" or "Where is he/she going?" when you go to the grocery store, go on a walk, or sit and look out the window.

Everyday Words

Talk to your child as you do everyday tasks such as sorting the laundry or thinking about what to cook. Explain the piles of laundry, for example, "Here are the dark clothes and here are the white clothes." Show your child the ingredients you have for making a meal and name them together.

Read

Read and reread books about topics your child is interested in. Learn the names of animals, vehicles, plants, and games together.

Field Trips

Take your child on short trips to new places, such as a florist shop or a park. Talk about what you see along the way and what you see when you get there. When you get home, have your child draw a picture of something he or she saw. Write a caption for the picture.

Job Talk

Go to a familiar place and look for the people who work there. What jobs do they do? What tools do they use?

Listening for Letters and Sounds

Nursery Rhymes

Read, sing, or say nursery rhymes from your childhood. Help your child learn them. Point out the parts that rhyme or have words you like to say or hear.

Beginning Sounds

Point out ways words begin or end. Compare words that start with the same sound, for example, tomato and taco. Ask: "Tomatoes and tacos begin in the same way. Can you hear the t in tomatoes and tacos?"

Rhyming Books

Read books with rhyming words, such as those by Dr. Seuss. Let your child fill in the words as you read them again and again.

Rhyming Riddles

Make up riddles and guessing games using words that rhyme or words that start with the same sounds. For example, "What kind of cake would a snake make? He might make a lake cake." The rhymes can be silly and fun and will get your child thinking about words and listening for rhymes.

Beginning Reading and Writing

Letter Search

Point out words on signs and in stores. Begin a search for the letter that begins your child's name. Read the stop signs and the other traffic signs aloud when you are driving with your child. Find letters on products, on signs, and on television. Match the letters with the child's first or last name. Play "letter of the day," in which you decide on a letter and go on a hunt for it.

Labels

Label a few belongings with your child's name, for example, a cup or a favorite book. Read the labels together.

Notes

Write simple notes to your child. For example, write "I love you" or "Let's take a walk." Your child can "write" notes back to you using words or pictures. Take turns reading the notes to each other.

More Reading and Writing Ideas

Shopping Lists

Write shopping lists and to-do lists while sitting next to your child. Provide paper and pencil so the child can make his or her own list. Then, take the list to the grocery store and use it as you shop to show the words on your list have meaning.

Make Words

Make magnetic letters available and play with them on a surface such as the refrigerator. Spell simple words for your child and have him or her repeat them.

Picture Menus

With your child, cut out pictures of food and paste them on sheets of paper to make a menu. You might make pages for breakfast, lunch, and foods. Have your child "read" the menu.

Alphabet Books

Make a book that has a page for each letter of the alphabet. The child can draw or find a picture for each letter and paste it on the page. Write the letter on the page for the child or let him or her do it. Staple the pages together to make a book. Read the book from time to time.

Book Time

Read with your child every day. Start by setting aside 5 or 10 minutes each day. Then gradually increase the time to 30 minutes. Go to the library together. Choose books that go along with the seasons, family holidays, or subjects your child is interested in.

Dramatizing

Help your child make cutouts of favorite storybook characters. Your child can use them to dramatize the story as you read and reread it.

Sharing

Share what you read with your child. Read aloud a portion of the newspaper or a book you are reading. Talk about why reading interests you.
